Hal Williams to resign from WUSD board of trustees

Hal Williams, a trustee of the Washington Unified School District from 1991 to 1994, and from 1996 to the present time, announced yesterday that he was resigning from the school board effective June 25.

Williams said he timed his resignation so that a special election to fill the remaining portion of his term will not be necessary, and so that it might be filled as part of the regular November ballot. Because of the timing of his announcement, a more detailed interview was not possible and school officials could not be reached for comment.

Following is his letter of resignation to the district, published in its entirety:

HAL WILLIAMS

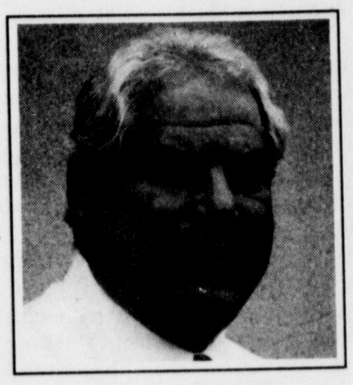

"Personal reflection is an activity I strongly believe everyone needs to engage in from time to time, especially those of us who are in positions that impact the lives and well being of children on a daily basis. I find myself in that very place tonight -- I have spent the last several days and nights reflecting on my belief system and why I ran for the Board of Education. Simply put, I am a stong advocate for public education. It is the role of public schools to embrace every student that comes through our school house doors as an individual of great worth, and give each and every child the skills necessary to become all they could ever dream of being -- not just a few children, but every child -- not just the child with two parents in the home -- not just the English speaking child -- not just the child with the support and resources at home that will enable success -- but every child. Public educators must commit to success for all, and commit to doing everything possible to reaqch all children, even if it means we all have to engage in personal and system relection, and decide we will make whatever curricular, program, and most importantly, instructional strategy changes needed, to bring about success for all students. Sadly, we are not there in this school district -- yes, we have many hard working, dedicated educators in this district, but the reality is we are not effectively meeting the needs of our students -- sadly, inspite of all those efforts, only 35% of our students are performing at grade level. That strongly suggests that our efforts are ineffective -- not that we don't have good people but that our efforts are ineffective -- not that we don't have good people but that our

David Farmer to join the board

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento voters gave police lieutenant David Farmer a 75%-25% margin of victory in the June 2 school board ballot over rival Paul Zolnikov, a real estate agent and businessman. Farmer was scheduled to be seated last night (June 9) at his first school board meeting, finishing a term left vacant last year with the resignation of Nancy Thompson-Candee.

DAVID FARMER

"The first thing I have to do is establish myself with the other four board members and try to work hard with them," Farmer said after his victory.

A strong proponent of a new school bond (which the Washington Unified School District has pursued unsuccessfully at the ballot twice this decade), Farmer said he hopes to begin laying the groundwork for another attempt.

Previously, the district had hoped to pass a bond to pay for a new high school and the conversion of the present high school to use as a middle school.

In order to get a school board issue on the next ballot on November, the board of trustees would have to move quickly -- in a matter of weeks. Farmer said he doesn't see that happening.

"I think it's futile to try to do this in a month," he commented, "and try to get a package the public is going to feel comfortable with."

In other election news:

- County Supervisor Tom Stallard, who represents Woodland and the "Bryte" portion of West Sacramento, retained his seat.
- Jorge Ayala defeated Suzanne Falzone for Yolo County Superintendent, with a 53.1 percent vote.
- Tony Bernhard retained his job as County Clerk, defeating Carolyn Pfanner with 65.3 percent of the vote.
- Richard Fisher was elected County Assessor, bringing in a 58.6 percent vote.
- Cass Sylvia won the Public Guardian's post, with 51.8 percent of the county's vote.
- Ed Prieto (with 38.7 percent) and John Laugenour (28.4 percent) will meet in a runoff for Yolo County Sheriff in November.
- Measure J, a board-of-supervisor-backed measure to combine the county's treasurer and tax collector positions into one appointed post, failed, with 62.2 percent of the voters rejecting it.
- 4th District State Sen. K. Maurice Johannessen received the Republicans' nomination to run again for his post in November, facing Mark DeSio of the Democrats.
- 8th Dist. Assemblywoman Helen Thomson received the Democrats' nomination for November, to face Republican Toni Thompson.
- Doug Ose of the Republicans will face Sandy Dunn of the Democrats for the seat of retiring 3rd District Congressman Vic Fazio in November.

About Town:

Advocate for special needs kids

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

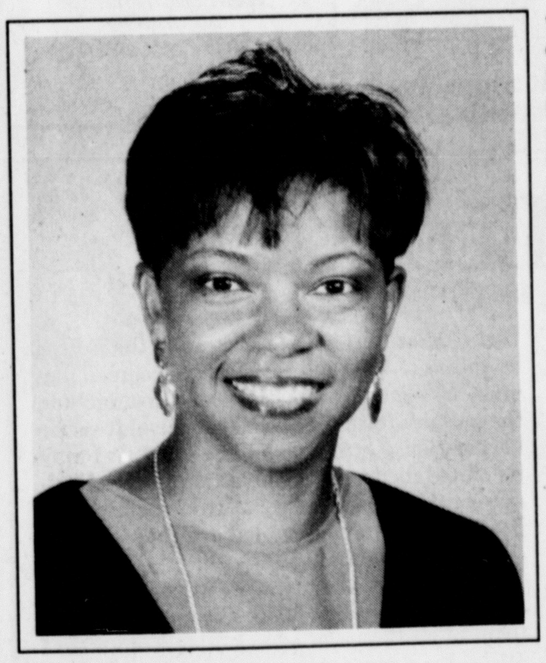

Pat Spears Lee has spent the past 16 years working in the Washington Unified School District. She has taught special needs children, elementary through high school, and in now a Program Specialist. Her many duties include establishing unique educational opportunities for special needs children, providing workshops and staff training for parents and teachers, and coordinating the district's GATE program.

"It's very important to identify children with special needs as early as possible," explained Pat. "Parents are often the first ones to spot a problem and the school district's responsibility is to be as resourceful and helpful as possible. Be it a problem with speech, or language, or visual perception, or behavior, testing and assessment are often needed and the hope is that at the end of the process the student will get the help he or she needs and that parents, teachers, and the administrators of the programs will all be on the same page."

Pat is involved throughout the numerous stages it takes to make sure a child with special needs ends up in the most appropriate classroom setting.

"I really enjoy my work," said Pat. "It requires a lot of staff development to do the job correctly, and the time I spend with other committed professionals is always rewarding. Every day demands a cognitive and pragmatic process. The school district has a lot of resources it can draw on to create win-win situations, and if you always try to keep the focus on the child, you'd be surprised at how often you can come up with the right solutions."

Pat considers one of the many perks of her job to be the great diversity of the young people who attend West Sacramento public schools.

PAT SPEARS LEE

"The kind of diversity we have in this school district is not only rare," said Pat, "it's also wonderful. Just in terms of all the many different languages our children speak, we are really unique. Sometimes it causes a few problems that other districts don't have to solve, but that's part of the challenge, to develop special programs for young people who really need them. And I love it when kids come back and tell me that something someone did here really touched their lives."

'The kind of diversity we have in this school district is not only rare, it's wonderful. . . Sometimes it causes a few problems that other districts don't have to solve, but that's part of the challenge.'

-- PAT SPEARS LEE

Pat brings a special background to her advocacy for children. "A lot of these young boys and girls really have to struggle to get where they want to go," said Pat, "and I have an easy time relating to that. I grew up in an all black neighborhood where there wasn't a lot of money, but there was a strong commitment to family, and values, and education. Thankfully, I had wonderful parents who taught their four children that absolutely anything is possible if you work hard enough. My dad only had a third grade education and he never really learned to read or write, but every month he and my mother would put five dollars in the bank for each of their children's college educations, and although I'm sure they knew that wouldn't come close to covering all the costs, it was a constant reminder to me and my sisters and brother that we were expected to get a good education and make something of ourselves. One of my fondest memories of my father is that even at the age of 71, just months before he died, he was still trying to get his GED (general education diploma)."

Pat also grew up during an era when institutionalized racism still had a firm grip on America. "In the early 1950s," recalled Pat, "the hospitals in Richmond wouldn't allow black women to have their babies there, so my parents had to drive to Berkeley just so I could be born. Plus my father was often called terrible names at work and I have vivid memories of how careful we had to be when we traveled down south to visit relatives. But my parents were so strong, and they always refused to let race be an excuse. They taught me to always work hard and to be as open-minded as possible, and those are great lessons for any child to learn."

Pat enjoys her work at the school district on a number of different levels, but the real motivating factor is always the children. "Maybe it's because of my own background," said Pat, "I don't really know, but I have a passion for people, especially young people, to have every opportunity to be all they can be. We all have so much potential, and I'm determined to do my part in making sure special needs children reach theirs."

Pat is married to Michael Lee, a Deputy Attorney General for the state Department of Justice. They reside in the Pocket area of Sacramento with their two sons, 12-year-old Derrek, and 18-year-old Jared, who will attend Stanford this fall.

Police report car thefts in West Sac area on the rise

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Car thefts have increased in West Sacramento in recent months.

Although precise statistics aren't available, Lt. David Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department confirmed that there has been an upsurge in thefts -- not just in West Sacramento, but in the Sacramento region.

"We seem to recover a large number (of Sacramento's stolen cars) and they recover a lot of ours," said Farmer. "A lot of it has to do with joy riding. A lot of the cars are left intact, with sometimes a radio or some personal property missing. Sometimes they're stripped."

Citing some partial statistics that were available, Farmer said that during a 30-day period ending June 4, 59 stolen vehicles (many of them from out of town) were recovered in West Sacramento. During a three week period ending June 1, at least 13 West Sacramento cars were stolen.

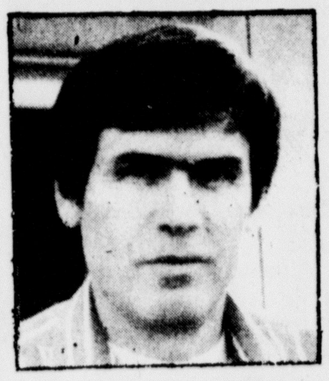

"The target vehicle seems to be Toyotas," he added. "Out of the 59 vehicles recovered, 23 were Toyotas."

Farmer said the police department was analyzing the problem and working on a strategy to combat the local car thefts. In the meantime, he urged residents to watch out for each other, park their cars in view of their homes, lock the doors, avoid leaving valuable (and attractive) items inside, and use protective devices such as alarms and steering wheel locks if possible.

The Good Book says to findeth yourself a good wife

Editor's note: Daryl is out of town this week. The following column is one of his favorites from the past.

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

Some friends of ours took my wife and me down to the B Street Theatre to see "Beast On The Moon", a wonderful little play about Aram and Seta Tomassian, two young Armenians who somehow managed to escape the horrible genocide which took place in their beloved land around the turn of the century.

The region known as Armenia once reached from the Black Sea to the Caspian Sea and was even supposed to have been where Noah's ark landed on Mt. Ararat. Its history is long and tragic and its devout Christian people have often been oppressed by foreign rulers of different faiths throughout the centuries.

In 1895, Ottoman ruler Abdul Hamid II turned on the Armenian minority in his empire and began a series of massacres that eventually took the lives of over a million people. In fact, as late as 1915, Turks were still driving Armenians out into the wastes of the hot Arabian desert, where hundreds of thousands died of starvation, exhaustion and sun-stroke.

The play begins in the 1920s and is set in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. As it starts to unfold, the audience learns that Aram's whole family had been slaughtered by the heartless Turks and that Seta, his new mail-order bride, had also been orphaned by the genocide. Although Aram is consumed with demons too terrible to share with anyone, he is determined to begin a new and better life in America, and he is convinced that the first step in that process is to properly instruct his young Seta on some of the finer points of being a good, obedient wife.

"Did you know that my mother wasn't even allowed to speak to my father for the first year of their marriage?" Aram tells Seta.

"How can that be?" asks Seta in disbelief.

To further explain how a good wife should behave, Aram breaks out his Bible and begins quoting scripture after scripture. "The husband is the head of the wife," he reads from the Bible, "and wives, be in subjection to your husbands."

"Hey," I whispered over to my wife, "did you know that?"

"Know what?" she whispered back.

"That the husband is the head of the wife."

"Just be quiet and watch the play, okay!"

Later that night, after my wife and I had been home for about an hour or so and agreed that "Beat On The Moon" was a fine play with just the right mixture of drama and humor, and that we had both been moved by the way Aram and Seta were able to create a good life for themselves out of the ashes of their youth, I decided to go in search of my copy of a book entitled The Complete Book Of Bible Quotations.

"What are you doing now?" asked my wife with a puzzled expression as I sat in our bed thumbing through some of the more memorable phrases and sayings from both the Old and New Testaments.

"You know, Mary," I said with sincerity, "I think maybe we've been going about this relationship of ours all wrong."

"What are you talking about?"

"Well," I explained, "it says right here, `Wives, submit yourselves unto your husband', and `As the church is subject unto Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands in every thing'." Getting no response, I quickly added, "And Genesis 3:16 says, `Thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee'."

"Would you just please go to sleep?" she said, her voice slightly agitated.

"Do I detect a slight hint of anger, dear?"

"I am not angry," she replied emphatically.

"Are you sure?"

"Yes, I'm sure."

"So, then you probably wouldn't mind hearing a couple of these quotes which talk about how women are the weaker vessel?"

"No thank you," she said, glaring at me.

"Then how about this one that says, `If they will learn anything, let them ask their husbands at home'?"

"Stop it!"

"See, you are too getting angry."

"I am not angry, Daryl!" she yelled. "Now go to sleep!"

"Well," I said, "that's good, because Proverbs 21:19 says, `It is better to dwell in the wilderness, than with an angry woman'."

Fireworks show returns July 2

Popular second annual show centered at new bridge

When majestic fireworks marked the opening of the Daniel C. Palamidessi Bridge last July 2, smiles of pride illuminated the faces of thousands of residents gathered on the bridge. It was an ideal spot to enjoy fireworks and reflect on West Sacramento's progress. Inspired feelings prevailed for days and weeks afterwards, as many citizens suggested the event take place every year.

Did somebody say "encore?" The public is invited to BridgeFest '98, a fireworks celebration of West Sacramento pride and progress on the evening of Thursday, July 2. Admission is free. The West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce is coordinating the event.

The "grandstand" will again by the Daniel C. Palamidessi Bridge, from which the public can view the fireworks. The bridge will close at 4 p.m. that day. The best area for parking will be along Industrial Blvd., north of the bridge. The public can access the parking area by taking Harbor Blvd. south to Industrial Blvd., then turn left and proceed toward the Daniel C. Palamidessi Bridge. Del Monte and Cebrian Streets will also be closed.

Boom Boom Productions, which produced last year's pyrospectacular, is providing the fireworks for BridgeFest '98. Leading up to the sky show will be three hours of live music on stage, beginning at 6 p.m. in the City Hall parking lot, 2101 Stone Blvd.

Refreshments will be on sale throughout the event.

"This community has a lot to feel good about," said the chamber's executive director, Don Hill. "The feeling this year will be 'come out, enjoy the music, and watch the fireworks." BridgeFest '98 will be a lot of fun."

Michael Jordan and his Chicago Bulls are in a very bad mood these days and their taking it out on Karl Malone and the Utah Jazz. The Bulls, who are the underdogs for the first time in three years, are trying to win their third consecutive NBA title at the expense of the Jazz. The Bulls are playing like a team that may not be quite the same next year. The Bulls may have some serious changes to their personnel next season, with Scottie Pippen and Coach Jackson looking for new contracts. Mr. Jordan has already stated that he won't return next season if these two pieces of the puzzle are not included in the Bulls plans and let's not forget about Dennis Rodman!

The Jazz who are trailing in the series 2 games to 1, set an NBA record in their 96-54 loss in Chicago last Sunday. Utah is now the proud owner of the new NBA record for fewest points scored by one team in an NBA game since the 24-second clock was introduced for the 1954-55 season!

Jordan, who has been on fire, will lead the Bulls into game four on Wednesday night (6 p.m) and will try to finish off the Jazz on Friday night.

The Jazz must win at least one of these games if they want to return to their friendly confines of Salt Lake City and game six.

Speaking of on fire, the San Francisco Giants are on a tear, winning ten games in row and moving into first place, one game ahead of the San Diego Padres. One the big reasons for their surge in the standings has been their pitching of course, but mostly its the timely hitting of catcher Brian Johnson. Johnson has hit nine home runs in 10 games, and would probably would be the player of the month if it weren't for Mr. McGwire in St. Louis hitting all those HR's. The Giants are at home this week against Seattle but you know they have to be thinking about the big three game show down in San Diego this weekend starting on Friday night (7:05 p.m.- ch. 2).

The A's are in Los Angeles but return to Oakland on Wednesday night for a four game home stand against Ken Griffey Jr. and the Seattle Mariners.

The biggest story in sports this year, if your a soccer fan, starts on Wednesday, June 10 in France, as the World Cup of Soccer kicks off its month long tournament. Let me give you a brief history on the World's largest sporting event.

The concept of a World Cup Soccer Championship was conceived by two Frenchmen, Jules Rimet, the president of FIFA (Federation International Football Assoc.), and Henri Delaunay, its secretary.

Following the 1928 Olympic, it was decided that the World Cup finals would be staged every four years between the Olympics. The choice of venue sites would rotate between the two power continents of Europe and South America. The original FIFA Trophy was named the Jules Rimet Cup, after its president. There have been 15 World Cup Tournaments played between 1930-1994. The inaugural World Cup Tournament was held in Uruguay and featured 13 nations, including seven from South America. Uruguay won the first-ever World Cup. The 1978 World Cup in Argentina featured only 16 teams. This year in France, 20 years later, 32 nations, the most ever, will chase after soccer's golden prize during the 33-day tournament.

Next week, I'll have my picks on which country will advance to the second round of play and also my prediction on the World Cup winner!

See ya next week!!

Raider tennis falls in tourney

From River City High School

Another terrific season for the River City High School Tennis Team has come to an end. Last week, the Raiders fell 3-2 to Justin-Sienna of Napa in the quarterfinals of the Sac-Joaquin Section Division III Team Playoffs. The Braves, who then went on to defeat Amador in the semifinals and arch-rival St. Helena in the final also by 3-2 scores, won their eleventh section title in the fourteen years the tournament has been run in a coed format.

Although playing most matches during the regular season in either a seven or nine-match setting, the playoffs are a best-of-five affair which allows coaches to play whomever they want, wherever they want them in the lineup in order to try and win at least three matches. This seemed to hurt the Raiders again this year as it eliminated one of their strengths, depth. Still, it took a tremendous Justin-Sienna effort to knock out the three-time Golden Empire League Champions.

Exchange student Hockey Darasak of Thailand defeated River City's Phoungeun Souvannaphoungeun in the boys singles match 6-1, 6-1 and the Braves' girls doubles team of Bronwyn Carlson and Chelsea Drennan downed RC's Aenoy Xayasone and Loan Nguyen 6-1, 6-2. The Raiders got on the scoreboard with a mixed doubles victory from Aaron Potnick and Khonesavanh Lattasima over Justin-Sienna's Charlie Bogue and Paula Keebler, 6-4, 6-1.

Now trailing 2-1 overall, the Raiders needed wins from the boys doubles pair of Sarom Phoung and Jeff Wright and from Douangchanh Lattasima in girls singles to advance to the Section Final Four in Stockton. They almost pulled it off. Both matches went a full three sets but Phoung and Wright were defeated 6-2, 6-7, 6-1 by Eric Matasamura and German exchange student Hannes Kroll. Lattasima won her match against Heather Drennan 4-6, 6-4, 6-4 to close the Raider season. The loss was just the second all year for RC, as the team finished 22-2 overall, including an undefeated 10-0 mark in the G.E.L.

After the Final Four wins against Amador and St. Helena, Justin-Sienna Coach Sam Levy had this compliment for the Raiders. "River City was the toughest team we played. They gave us our most difficult match."

Raider Coach Dave Brooks tried to remain upbeat following the loss to the Braves. "It was a difficult way to end a great '98 season. It was a match worthy of a Section semifinal or even a final, but the luck of the draw had us play them in the quarterfinals and there's not much we can do about that. The exchange students were too tough for us. I really wanted to get the four seniors, D.L., Sarom, Jeff, and Aenoy back to the Final Four, but we couldn't quite do it. Still, we're the Threepeat Champions of the G.E.L. and we're better than more than thirty other teams in the Section, just a notch below Justin-Sienna and St. Helena, but not by much. It's been a wonderful season with a great group of student-athletes."

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial:

Era ends for Washington Unified School Board

The school board is now anybody's guess.

Last night, Washington Unified School District trustee Hal Williams resigned after being the board's most forceful member over much of this decade. Williams was at the forefront of the removal of a former trustee for morals issues, and was instrumental in the hiring and firing of several superintendents.

Even when not serving as board president, he seemed to set the tone for the board, with the consistent alliance through this period of fellow trustees Pat Flint and Irene Eklund on controversial issues.

After recently developing a career in Southern California and splitting his time with West Sacramento -- and for various other reasons -- Williams said enough was enough last night.

This leaves the board with no clear majority and no clear personality. The playing field is wide open.

What kind of school board will it now become? Will there be a vacuum of power, for better or for worse? Can the board work effectively with both the superintendent and its faculty? Will it be able to successfully pursue a school bond (currently a longshot in West Sacramento) without having to wait several years for the demographics of the city's voters to change?

We shall see.

But with no clear three-vote majority, every seat on the board counts. The outcome of the board's fiasco in attempting to appoint a friend to the vacant seat, and the resultant controversy and special election, bear far more importance than some observers felt they did at the time they were happening.

The News-Ledger mentioned several months ago that, "for reasons which may soon become clear," the board majority might dissolve this year even though none of the majority's members face election soon. Those reasons became clear last night, as the majority disappeared and an era ended.

Good luck to the new board, and to Mr. Williams in his new pursuits. May this change be for the best.

'How the West Sacramento Community has benefited me'

This essay by River City High School junior Sue Yang took third place in the City of West Sacramento's recent essay contest celebrating community pride. The award brings her passes to Marine World from the city government. The News-Ledger will bring you the second and first place essays in coming weeks.

Sue recently started driving, and she appreciates the safety improvements on the Harbor Boulevard Underpass. She grew up near Bryte Park and has watched the park develop from a dirt field into a grassy, active park.

West Sacramento has improved so much as I have grown up here. My childhood years have been fun and exciting in West Sacramento. As the eldest daughter in my family and having seven other siblings behind me, I am happy to see that they will also have the fun and exciting days of growing up in West Sacramento. There have been many improvements in the community. Many of them involved the schools, the parks, the inside of every youth. Some of the improvements that I have seen growing up in West Sacramento have been the Harbor Boulevard Widening and Underpass Project, the Bryte and Alyce Norman Parks and Play-field, and the Bilingual Integrated Curriculum Project.

West Sacramento's project of widening Harbor Boulevard has made it safer and easier for me to drive because I have just got my provisional driver license. I was very happy to have a safe drive with my training instructor and to drive safety on the Harbor Boulevard Underpass. With this project, my parents are more trusting and allow me to drive in this community without concerns because they know that West Sacramento is a safe community. Besides driving on Harbor Boulevard, I also ride my bike on the bike and pedestrian path because it is a much safer road to go on. I also love the trees and how nature is part of making West Sacramento a much better community to live in. The Streets Repaving Project throughout the city has also made it easier and safer for me to drive when the weather is very bad. The rain, fog, and sun have all had an influence on how we drive and with the safe and paved road, I can count on a better view and a safer road to drive on.

The Bryte and Alyce Norman Parks, and also many other parks in this community have been fun and exciting places for the youths and elderly to have a great time in the summer.

These parks, and many other parks in the community, have shown great importance for the athletic youth because it is a better environment for them to play. My parents are glad that the community has taken the time to remodel the Bryte and Alyce Norman parks so there would be better places to walk through and play in. My parents love to garden, and I know how important the community looks to them. They always want to see children grow up learning how to live in a clean and natural environment. Cleaning up the parks and playfields in the West Sacramento community will benefit my siblings and me, because we will not have to worry about pollution and litter in this community.

Having River City High School honored as a Distinguished School has made me happy because I am proud of the success of my school. The Bilingual Integrated Curriculum Project (BICOMP) will help my family, and other families as well, because it is designed to meet the language needs of minority students. This academic excellence will help the bilingual students to become better citizens in the future. Since my siblings and I are bilingual in both Hmong and English, this program will give us the opportunity to improve our English skills. Going to a school with a variety of ethnic groups makes it fun to learn and improve the students' speaking and language skills. BICOMP will help bilingual students to become fluent in English.

I really appreciate what West Sacramento has done to make a better community for everyone to live in. The years of planning are worth having a beautiful community for the younger children to grow up in and for the youth to develop out of. I hope this community will show a difference in their lives. It has made a difference in my life because the roads are safer, the parks are more natural, and the school has improved to make students want to learn more. West Sacramento has shown so much pride in the community and has made much progress throughout the years. This progress will help each and everyone in a little way.

Stirling: Yolo's own candidate

In Yolo County, Attorney General candidate Dave Stirling beat his opponent in the recent primary by 3 to 1. This is a much bigger victory margin that Stirling received state-wide.

Such a huge showing of support locally may well be because of Dave Stirling's special feelings for Yolo County. He lives just over the county line from Clarksburg. And Dave often visits Yolo County, even before he was a candidate for State Attorney General.

Yolo County does not get regular visits from any of the other candidates for state-wide offices. It's good to find one, like Dave Stirling, who can call Yolo County "a second home."

Re: Herr response to Overhouse letter

Ganging up on me now! Typical Republican behavior (other Democrats should feel free to jump into the fray). The puritanical tone of the Overhouse letter reminded me once again of the wisdom of Mr. Dooley when he said "Thanksgiving t'was founded by th' Puritans to give thanks f'r bein' presarved fr'm th' Indyans, an'...we keep do'in it to give thank we are presarved fr'm th' Puritans." Amen.

To quickly unravel Overhouse's twisted interpretation of my words, I declare, upfront, that I am not a Communist. Honest! I am not against wealth as a principle. In fact, I just voted for Al Checchi. Many millionaires are great philanthropists. But I grew up at a time when people still believed in a concept called "a honorable profit." Anyone gouging, hoarding, monopolizing, or charging an unreasonable profit was considered a crook. Now it's anything to make a buck. Business is no longer constrained by social ethics. It's every man for himself.

Overhouse demonstrated that mindset when he said the Reagan policy "freed businesses to fire workers instead of paying 70 percent of profits to the govt." In the good old days, an employee was rewarded for a lifetime of loyal service - not booted out the door to temporarily pump up short term profits. And I don't have a 1989 tax code at hand, but my recollection is that Clinton only raised taxes from 32 percent to 37 percent on people making over $180,000.00 annually in 1993 (when he lowered taxes for middle income workers). A 70 percent tax bracket must be for zillionaires.

CNN reported again last night that 5 percent of the population now control 85 percent of America's wealth. I didn't say (as Overhouse contends) that the vast majority of the population is "bitterly fighting" over what's left (although watching any town's council meeting might support that theory). Since we don't seem to have the means (or the gumption) to change the system, we better fall back on an ideal taught to us at our mother's knee. It's called "sharing." Pooling a certain percentage of our personal income in the govt. to promote the common good is not only admirable but absolutely necessary in today's corporate world.

Overhouse praises the rich as hardworking people that wisely invest their money and deserve their wealth. If only it were that simple! Imagine if every citizen was actually compensated on the basis of how hard they work -- our financial problems would be over. Many a fruitpicker, janitor, waitress, garbage collector, etc.; works harder in a week than a CEO works in a lifetime. Overhouse (and his ilk) know perfectly well that minimum wage doesn't leave any money to "wisely invest." It doesn't even cover the basic needs of food and shelter, let alone the outrageous cost of medical care.

No one expects the govt. to take care of them from "cradle to grave." It took me 20 years of working days and going to college at night to earn a B.A. degree. Then suddenly, thanks to a govt. education loan, I was able to earn my M.A. in only two years. This is the kind of help the average citizen is looking for -- assistance in buying a house or surviving a natural disaster. But we're the lucky ones.

As a social worker, I have looked into the frightened eyes of the truly needy -- the hungry children, the frail elderly, the mentally confused and the physically suffering. So don't waste your Republican propaganda on me. No amount of moralizing will make these people self-sufficient; they need help. I'm not a fool. Why would I remain in the profession if I saw only a succession of gold brickers, con artists and welfare cheats.

Overhouse says his "truth will make me free." I cringe at the cavalier use of that expression. That promise originated in the Bible and only Jesus was qualified to make it. God's truth is embodied in the golden rule to love thy neighbor as thyself. We are one in spirit. This is the basis for all compassion and should dictate our social and political policies.

In reality, the GOP is motivated by three issues: Rich republicans want to reduce taxes on capital gains; Poor Republicans are afraid of losing their guns (a non-issue trumped up by the rich to keep them in the party); And a moral sector who are sincerely pro-life. I can identify with the third group. I don't believe in abortion but criminalization is not the answer. Strangely, Republicans concern for the baby seems to stop at the hospital door. They reject the social programs needed to help the mother and baby grow and survive. It's so nonsensical.

I grudgingly accept Overhouse's criticism of my remarks about "Hogan's Heroes." My husband balked at that one too. He spent a hour filling me in on all the madcap antics of Col. Hogan and his men. I finally conceded it must fall into that "male category" (like bit wheels and wrestling matches) of things I just don't understand.

One thing I do understand is why a famous person (who??) once pointedly reminded Republicans that "life is painting a picture not doing a sum." Proud to be a Liberal-

P.S. Hiring policemen with dogs to sniff out drugs in school lockers is a terrible idea. Most young people are very idealistic and it would diminish their trust of all authority to be treated so unfairly.

Remember Masood . . . and be careful

Here it is another graduation season and first off I'd like to wish the class of 1998 "the best life has to offer" and that's what this letter is about "life." It's been a year since Masood Sameyee was the victim of a drunk driver. Since his memorial bench has arrived in West Sacramento we are waiting to dedicate it. Class of '98 as you go and celebrate be careful it's not always your fault that things happen. Be safe and go out into the future with your eyes totally open. I wish to thank this class for the donation to Masood's bench fund. The penny drive held at River City High School is one relief in the sixth inning and held Southside scoreless, keeping the game close. Robby also contributed with his bat, getting a double and a triple. In the top of the ninth inning West Sacramento took the lead back again. In the bottom of the ninth inning Robby Domasky shut Southside down one-two-three, with the final out being a ground ball to Mark Palamidessi at third base, who threw low to Arnold Mendes at first base, Arnold making a very difficult catch on a short-hop throw for the final out.

Also hitting for West Sacramento was Joseph Brito who was 3 for 3.

This victory was especially sweet to the West Sacramento team and fans because it was a come-from-behind victory and because Southside is our fiercest rival.

West Sac's Legion team is now 5 and 0 in league.

West Sac also has a Big League Baseball team this year, coached by Ray Meza and Tim McKinnon and sponsored by the West Sacramento Little League. This team is made up of boys ages 16 through 18. Coaches Meza and McKinnon are very excited about the talent that they have on their team. The team is off to a great start, going 6 and 0 in its first three weeks of play.

instructional programs, straegies and techniques are not working. We must begin to take stock and decide that we as a system must make the changes and not continue to wait for "the kind of children" who will benefit from our current strategies and ways of doing things.

"When adults decide to put aside adult issues, and truly put the needs of students first, and when adults decide that accountablity must go hand and hand with a clear sense of direction, unity of purpose, and clearly defined goals in a student-centered learning environment, then, and only then, will we begin to enable and empower all children to be all they ever dreamed they could be.

Unfortunately to date -- our school district has failed to do that-- it appeared for a time that we were going to embrace an accountability system that would be the catalyst for real systemic change that would enable us to begin to look beyond where we are and look to where we can be. I'm disappointed with the realization that is not going to happen. The personal reflection I have engaged in has also brought me to the realization that I am unable to align my personal education philosophy with a system that is not meeting the needs of all students and yet is not willing to acknowledge this and make whatever changes must be made to enable all children to be successful in a competitive global society.

I strongly believe it is just a matter of time before the state legislature enacts new accountability processes that will bring educationally under performing school districts under an umbrella of state control similar to the A.B. 1200 legislation enacted for fiscally endangered school districts. It is my real hope that Washington Unified will not find itself in that position -- my real fear is that is exactly where the system is headed.

With that said, I am submitting my resignation from the Board of Trustees of the Washington Unified School District effective June 25, 1998. The timing of this resignation will enable the position to be filled during the regular course of the upcoming November election."

The Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) could mean

$$$ in your pocket if you qualify!

The EITC is based on your earned income and the number of children you have living with you. If you don't have a child, you may still qualify for a limited EITC.

To claim the EITC on your 1997 tax return, you need income of less than:

- $29,290–and two or more qualifying children,
- $25,760–and one qualifying child, or
- $9,770–and no qualifying children.

Remember: you, your spouse and your children must have Social Security numbers to get the EITC.

If you expect to qualify for the EITC in 1998, ask your employer about advance EITC payments. You could get part of the credit with your pay now, instead of waiting until after you file your 1998 tax return.

Ask the IRS or your tax professional about the EITC. You can call 1-800-829-3676 to get free IRS Publication 596, Earned Income Credit, or download IRS forms and publications from the Internet at www.irs.ustreas.gov.

Beware! False EITC claims could prohibit you from getting the credit for up to 10 years.

West Sac hands out 'Community Pride' contest awards

From Art Schroeder
Community Relations
Redevelopment & Housing Agency
West Sacramento

Three West Sacramento students have won Disneyland family getaways in the Community Pride Wins A Ride Contest. Angela Prasad, Stephanie Saefong and Teira Tyler were named grand prize winners in the contest, which asked local students to design posters and write essays on the theme, "How Has West Sacramento Most Improved Since Becoming A City." The grand prize winners, in addition to the second- and third-place winners were presented by the West Sacramento City Council on June 3.

In the high school division, Angela Prasad wrote the contest's grand prize essay, in which she described her experience as a volunteer with the Teens Assisting Seniors program. It was her first time entering an essay contest. This fall, Angela will serve as student body president of River City High School.

In the middle school and elementary school divisions, the grand prize posters were created by Stephanie Saefong of Golden State Middle School and Teira Tyler of Westfield Elementary. Stephanie's favorite subject is art, but still she was surprised at winning one of the grand prizes. Teira was inspired to enter the contest by her fifth grade teacher, Michael Williams. Her Disneyland visit will be Teira's first. "I've driven by Disneyland before, but I've never been inside," she said. The grand prize Disneyland trip includes air travel, two nights' room accommodations and park admission for four.

The second-place winners receive four passes to Paramount Great America and each third-place winner earns passes to the new Marine World Theme Park. The other winners are:

Maika Lee, second place poster, Westfield Elementary School;

Oksana Marchenko, third place poster, Golden State Middle School; Leena Patel, second place poster, Golden State Middle School;

Tiffany Pina, third place poster, Westfield Elementary School;

Rishi Sharma, second place essay, River City High School; and Sue Yang, third place poster, River City High School.

"The city is very pleased to congratulate these students," said West Sacramento Mayor, Wesley A. Beers. "They demonstrated creativity, originality and skill in expressing themselves. Thanks should also be given to the teachers who encouraged their students to participate. There was a lot of competition for the awards."

City council wonders about flood protection impacts from Sacto measures

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Concerned that plans "upriver" in Sacramento could affect West Sacramento's flood protection, the West Sacramento City Council will host tonight a discussion on those plans. As part of the meeting, the council may opt to take a position on a bill by Congressman Robert Matsui (D-Sacramento) to modify Folsom Dam and raise Sacramento levees.

The bill is opposed by Rep. John Doolittle (R-Rocklin) who instead is pushing for the construction of a new dam at Auburn for flood control purposes.

The Matsui bill could raise flows on the American River, said West Sacramento City Manager Joe Goeden, explaining West Sacramento's concern.

We believe it is important for the city of Sacramento to do whatever they need to do to protect themselves, but we don't want them to do anything to jeopardize our protection.

JOE GOEDEN
City Manager

"The normal flow down the river could go as high as 180,000 cubic feet per second," Goeden said. "That kind of flow is going to have an impact on anyone downstream."

But Goeden added that the dam improvements could also improve downstream flood safety in some circumstances, and that the bill contains provisions for federal funding to remedy any downstream flood protection impacts. The question is whether that money will be enough for West Sacramento to overcome any impacts, he said.

"The staff recommendation is that we support Mr. Matsui's efforts to get Sacramento over the hundred year floodplain level," he said. "But we want to be clear on the language so that people downstream don't lose flood protection."

Goeden said that with levee improvements currently being made, West Sacramento will have "250 year" flood protection, and he hopes that whatever Sacramento does won't jeopardize that level of protection. A "250 year" flood is a flood of the magnitude expected to occur only once in about every 250 years.

"We believe it is important for the city of Sacramento to do whatever they need to do to protect themselves, but we don't want them to do anything to jeopardize our protection," Goeden commented.

If the Auburn Dam is built, he added, that could raise local protection to the 400-year level, but that is "way, way in the future if it ever gets built at all," Goeden said.

Last month, local officials expressed their concern about the issue to Yolo County's congressman, Vic Fazio. In a jointly signed letter with Board of Supervisors member Mike McGowan, West Sacramento Mayor Wes Beers told Fazio that the impact of Sacramento's plans "on upstream and downstream properties in Yolo County have not been sufficiently analyzed."

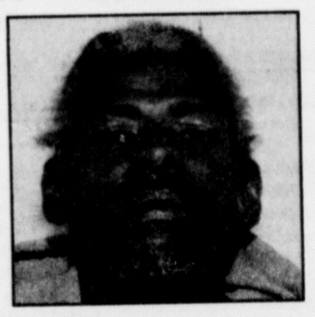

The letter also said that "as others in the region undertake measures to protect themselves from flooding, they should not be allowed to do so if it reduces the flood protection of others."

Tonight's flood discussion will take place as part of the West Sacramento City Council meeting which begins at 7 p.m. in the council chamber, 2101 Stone Blvd. The agenda item comes at the request of Mayor Beers, and a representative of the Sacramento Area Flood Control Agency (SAFCA) is expected to be present.

CASE NUMBER P98000138

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of JACK GOMES:

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by KEVIN GOMES in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that KEVIN GOMES be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on 6/24/98 at 8:30 a.m. in Dept. 7, 725 Court Street, Woodland, CA 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A "Request for Special Notice" form is available from the court clerk.
